Jamie Demas

Jamie is passionate about land conservation and improving the quality of the Cape's waters, advocating for sewering and eco-friendly landscaping free of pesticides and fertilizers. She is currently serving on the board of APCC.

Jamie served her first term as a trustee for the Orleans Conservation Trust from 2016-2021. She is a past treasurer for the Orleans Pond Coalition, where she led OPC's committee to sample Orleans ponds for cyanobacteria in partnership with APCC.

Jamie is semi-retired, working as the part-time COO for the podcast studio Double Elvis Productions. Double Elvis' award-winning podcast, Disgraceland, is the most listened to music-themed podcast of all time. Prior to podcasting, Jamie was the SVP of finance & administration for Macmillan Learning. Jamie has extensive experience in business development, financial planning, HR, contracts, and operations.

Jamie majored in English at Boston University, where she played varsity lacrosse and field hockey. She has had a home in the Bakers Pond area of Orleans since 2006 and has lived in Orleans full time since 2019. An avid environmentalist and proponent of native plants, Jamie enjoys gardening, bird watching, and hiking in Nickerson State Park with her dogs Lucy and Koko.

Kevin Galligan

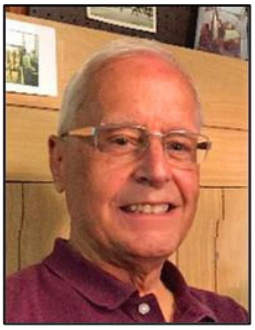

Kevin has been an OCT member and active supporter and volunteer for nearly 40 years. He currently serves as a member of the Town of Orleans Select Board and has served as a public member of the Massachusetts Energy Facilities Siting Board, member of the Orleans Conservation Commission, a Water Commissioner, chair of the Renewable Energy Committee, and member of the Orleans Personnel Advisory Board. Kevin has a BS in accounting from the University of Massachusetts–Dartmouth, a BS in mechanical engineering technology from Northeastern University, and an MBA from University of Massachusetts–Dartmouth. With Vince Ollivier he owns and operates a small farm that follows organic growing practices. He taught environmental science—specifically energy efficiency and conservation—at Cape Cod Community College and continues to provide energy consulting services.

Mary Griffin

Mary Griffin has served as a Commissioner of the MA Department of Fish and Game, as Southeast Regional Director of Mass Audubon, as Executive Director of the Mass Land Trust Coalition, as General Counsel of the Executive Office of Energy and Environmental Affairs, and as Chief of Legal Services and Land Protection at the MA Department of Conservation and Recreation. Currently, she is a part-time hearing officer for the MA Department of Fish and Game and works seasonally at Wellfleet Wildlife Sanctuary for Mass Audubon. She is a graduate of Davidson College and Cornell Law School. She lives in Orleans, MA and enjoys hiking and exploring nature with her husband Andy and dog Finley.

Ed Hafner

Ed worked in science research for the Allied-Signal Research Center near Chicago and then at Pfizer, Inc., served many years on the Conservation Commission in East Lyme, CT., and volunteered at and became Board Chairman for the Drop-In Learning Center in nearby New London, tutoring kids in their after-school program.

He has been a mentor for 4 years at the K-3 Hyannis West Elementary School, serves on the Orleans Pond Coalition Board, and as a member of the Orleans Marine and Fresh Water Quality Committee.

Ed has a bachelor's degree in chemistry from the University of Rochester, a masters in secondary school education from Harvard College and a PhD degree in biochemistry from Cornell. He completed post-doctoral studies at the National Institutes of Health.

Emily McKhann

Emily McKhann is a strategic communications professional who has spent her career working with the world's leading nonprofits, corporations, and agencies. For twelve years, Emily was co-founder and CEO of The Motherhood, an award-winning social impact agency that leveraged the web to advance and inspire social good. She launched global campaigns for the Gates Foundation, the ONE Campaign, the UN Foundation, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and others. Emily sold the company in 2018.

Before this, Emily ran strategic communications firms based in New York City and Dallas, TX, advising senior leadership teams at CBS, AT&T, Scholastic, and others. Prior to that, she was Director of International Business and Acting Commissioner to the United Nations and Consular Corps for New York City. She co-authored the bestselling book Living with the End in Mind, published by Crown Books and featured on the Oprah Winfrey Show.

Emily currently serves on the Orleans Pond Coalition board and has principal responsibility for updating The Blue Pages, A Guide to Protecting Cape Cod Waters.

She and her husband split their time between Larchmont, NY and Orleans.

Deborah Reuman

Deb began her career in nonprofit management and finance over 40 years ago. She earned her MBA from the UNC Kenan-Flagler Business School in Chapel Hill, NC and passed the Uniform CPA examination. Deb retired from Justice Resource Institute where she served as Chief Financial Officer. She has overseen budget and contract development, capital management, debt and cash structuring, investments, and financial reporting in the nonprofit field. Deb participates in designing business and leadership development strategies. Deb is most interested in developing financial models that assist creation of innovative programming responses in the often challenging nonprofit fiscal environment. Deb and her husband moved to Orleans from Barnstable in 2020 and have enjoyed exploring some of the lesser known conservation areas in the area.

Mefford Runyon

Meff currently serves on the Town of Orleans Select Board and formerly chaired the Orleans Open Space Committee. He spent summers in Orleans beginning in 1952 and has lived in town full-time since 1974. He received his BA from Colgate University in 1974 and began working at the Cape Cod Five Cents Savings Bank in 1975. He retired in 2011. Over the years, Meff has served on various town committees, including the town's Comprehensive Planning Committee.